“ Im just thought of byron tonight and wanted to find a way to get him to call me back and came upon this news. to his mom whom i met only once Im so sorry. I live in NYC and he stayed with me because I thought he should get a good night sleep before heading back to VA. I am so sad to hear he is gone!!! I feared that was the case.

I met him in Provincetown Ma many years ago and instantly liked his crazy energy. I found out he lived in Newport and I was from East Greenwich RI. Next thing I knew I went to his place in the tennis house of Bel Mar?? Not sure if that was the houses name but it was a wild place!! Met his mom then went out on the front lawn to the fountain in bathing suits and jumped in for a dip for all to see passing by on Belview Ave. I HAD A BLAST! I never forgot him and that will remain a wonderful moment in my life.... among many others with him.

Please accept my sincerest condolences.

“ Byron was so ambitious and optimistic. The legal system made it impossible for him to uphold a fresh start and succeed. Shame on a system that can discourage a productive human being to the point that he gives up. I just found out about sad news. May his friends and family take comfort that , although his journey was tragic, he now has peace, and is no longer haunted.
