“ I just found out my dear friend and college roommate, Robin, passed away in December. If this message can get to any of his family to contact me at the following address, it would be greatly appreciated:

I will simply say that I was brought up as a child and moved constantly (I went to 12 different schools). I was born in Woodstock and met Robin in the second grade. Just by chance at Virginia Tech, he wound up in the room next to me. After a couple of months we ditched our existing roommates and moved in together. The next 3 years that Robin and I spent together at Tech were some of the best days of my life. He became the only friend, other than my wife, that I ever had in my life. Our memories together are many and truly special--none better than wading the Shenandoah River fishing for smallmouth bass after we caught helgermites the night before--Robin on the rock removal and me on the screen.

I could go on and on on memories (some of them are best kept just between Robin and me). This is truly one of the saddest days of my life but I hope the family will get these thoughts and Robin, buddy, we will fish again in a very special place.

Sincerely,

Hank Nicodemus
