“ Crying because I know Pop, your going to be bringing Mom home soon with Nanna and Gang. My heart and soul will be broken, Mom is my best friend and her smile, I will miss the most, her smile melts my heart, always has. It has been my honor and privilege to care for Mom since going on Hospice March 25,2013 to present March 7, 2020, I know my time is coming to a end & her eternal heavenly life will begin soon.

“ *7 years, I've been missing you.
You're still in my heart, mind & soul. I still cry & grieve the day you went home to our Heavenly Father. 5-2-38 - 6-19-12
I love you, Pop*

“ *I'm missing you, I'm trying to stay strong as I know Mom will be joining you in heaven soon.
I love you both so much and having a difficult time letting go. You will always remain in my thoughts & in my heart.*

“ Well here it is holiday time and memories are flooding my head. I still see you sitting in the family room playing cards with the boys. I see you and mom playing (nitpicking) with each other, to crack each other up. I miss you Pop, I'm so thankful I have good memories to visit. I hope you can feel the love we still have for you. I hope you know how often your name and memories are shared in this house about you. You're always in my heart, Merry Christmas Pop, and thank you for being a wonderful dad to me.

Thinking & missing you today Pop. My struggle keeping Mom here is real & I'm in need of you, so I think to myself, what would Pop tell me, encouragement and patience is what you would instill into me, so with that, I shall move forward and just do my best moment by moment. I miss you Pop, I miss everything about you. I miss your smile & our father daughter moments, all our laughs & sorrows.
